

Participative Leadership Practitioners Circle

April 19th (as always, the third Thursday of each month)

7:00 pm - 9:00 pm

Holladay United Church of Christ (2631 East Murray Holladay Road)

Potluck of Deadly Serious Play

We've heard from many of you your desires to continue to learn about play. How to skillfully play. What it takes to have the courage to lead others in play. Principles of play. Practices of play. What it frees in all of us to be brilliant together. And, well, to play together just because.

April's practitioners circle will be on all of this. And in two parts. First, playing, and second, some focused discussion, learning and harvesting.

Please bring an offering of play and whatever you need to host the group in it. Stuff you use with groups. Or have wanted to try. That can be offered to the group in a 5-20 minute period. These offerings will be the first half of our meeting.

RSVP Appreciated

tenneson@tennesonwoolf.com

PLPC Salt Lake Valley is a group of learning friends, colleagues, and practitioners. We support a culture and practice of participative leadership in the Salt Lake Valley. We meet to strengthen our learning field, our relational field, and apply what we learn to projects that help in this valley. We meet in varied constellations. You do not have to have participated in all or in previous circles. There is no fee.

"I figured out that if I keep it up, someday I'll probably get wise enough to be silly in public, but I probably won't wait that long."

Brian Andreas, Storypeople